QEDman After Shave Skin Conditioner : for the American gentleman

Quite frankly, I created After Shave Skin Conditioner simply to counteract the drying effect of most shaving creams and soaps, as well as most face soaps – THAT'S ALL. It is not an intense treatment, it is not a cure-all balm (in my opinion, such a product does not exist), it is not a cologne - but a very light moisturizer. Please do not judge After Shave Skin Conditioner for any other purpose.

I get calls all the time from chaps who ask, "What product do you recommend to soothe skin that has been irritated by shaving?" Quite frankly, if your skin feels irritated after shaving you should be addressing the cause of the irritation, and not seeking a quick remedy in a bottle or jar. Could it be you haven't changed the razor's blade in a month or that you're using a poor quality blade? Is the setting on your adjustable razor too high? Are you using bad technique for your razor type? Is there something in the ingredients of whatever you use to prep your beard, or in your lubricant (shaving cream/soap) that's causing the irritation? Do you have a skin condition that requires diagnosis and treatment by a dermatologist?

In my opinion, there are very few balms formulated to actually soothe - some even aggravate. I am suspect of those that are part of a scent range (are they scents or balms), as well as those that simply numb (are they good for the skin).

As for moisturizers, the majority don't penetrate the skin completely and some don't penetrate at all. Such products do nothing more than clog pores and leave a greasy film on the surface where airborne impurities can settle. Some moisturizers even contain ingredients that can irritate certain skin types.

QEDman After Shave Skin Conditioner does not layer lots of heavy oils and emollients on the surface of the skin. The Olive Leaf extract and Hydrolyzed Oat Protein provide a silky feel, a smooth spread and quick absorption. Skin is visibly less dry almost immediately. Despite quick absorption, it leaves no sticky, powdery or oily after-feel on the skin. Botanicals and Marshmallow Root add light antiseptic and astringent qualities. This is an unscented product, meaning no single ingredient has been added with the sole purpose of providing scent. The ever-so-slight hint of spice derives from Rosemary Oleoresin (a natural antioxidant) which, along with Grapefruit Seed Extract (a natural antiseptic), is the formula's natural preservative. A dollop does the neck and face; if you feel you need more, add it. A little bit goes a long way.

Handmade in the U.S. in small batches, so quantity limited. ... NOTE: Besides Original EO After Shave Skin Conditioner I now offer, Lavender EO After Shave Skin Conditioner (anti-bacterial, anti-inflammatory) and Lime EO After Shave Skin Conditioner (antiseptic, astringent). Though both Lavender and Lime essential oils add a wonderful fragrance to the Skin Conditioner, they were not added as scent, but for their skin benefits. It just so happens a secondary benefit is their wonderful scents. Original, Lavender, Lime ... 4oz bottle $9.95

NEW ADDITIONS to the range!! ... Bay Laurel EO After Shave Skin Conditioner (antiseptic, astringent), Cypress EO After Shave Skin Conditioner (astringent), Patchouli/ Tea Tree/ Peppermint EO After Shave Skin Conditioner (antiseptic, antibacterial, cooling), Rose Geranium EO After Shave Skin Conditioner (antiseptic, astringent), Texas Cedarwood EO After Shave Skin Conditioner (antiseptic, astringent), Vetiver EO After Shave Skin Conditioner (antiseptic). Again, these various EOs were added for their skin benefits, and not as fragrance. However, a secondary benefit is their wonderful scents.

4oz bottle $9.95.

Hi Charles;

Just wanted to say that the skin conditioner is great. It does exactly as stated. I have even used it after an alum bar treatment and it still goes right into the skin rapidly and leaves a great smooth non irritating feeling to the skin ... I find that I am reaching for it all the time because here in Utah we have cool winters and extra moisture is needed. I think I personally will be using it for a lot more than after shave ... Great product!

Thanks again, Allan
