

I just got my second order from you. Having been blown away by the pleasure of shaving with Taylor and Trumper creams after having used what I thought of as being quite acceptable Colonel Conk glycerine cakes, I wanted to try your QED sticks. I travel quite a bit on business and the compact size and no need to bring a shaving bowl makes it a no brainer for the light packing. But they are quite pleasant on their very own. They are vastly superior to any cakes I have used in the past, so big kudos to you and your company for coming up with these. And kudos for not making the fragrances overwhelming.

I am making myself a nuisance to friends and colleagues talking entirely too much about the choices in shaving. And now I have a new topic to obsess about: your QED sticks.

Thanks again for your help after my first purchase and good luck with the QED products - they deserve to be successful.
